How many times he struck the ground is not known, but the most prominent injuries were dislocations of the right thumb and left hand, a sprained ankle, and a scalp wound, besides a list of contusions not inventoried by Assistant Dispensary Physician Newcomb.

Mr. O'Toole is now convalescing at St. Mary's infirmary, and, like a true son of Erin, has made a resolve that the next time he jumps from a moving car he will wait till it stops.

It was found that the basements of the mischild—well, the less the original is followed here the better. The interpreter practically gets the girl. She is his slave for the time being and he plays the missionary to keep her safely out of sight until he can sell her and get the money for her. Then the missionary is fooled again and the process is repeated as frequently as possible.

It is a great industry for the unscrupulous interpreters, who live better, have more pleasure and make more money with less work under the protection of the mission than most of the good people of their town.

The burning of the missions freed some of the girl captives, who told tha stories of the kidmapping, confinement and the indignities to which they were subjected. The stories spread and aroused the ferceity of all good people. This started the great riot and the mob attacked the missionaries and interpreters indiscriminately.

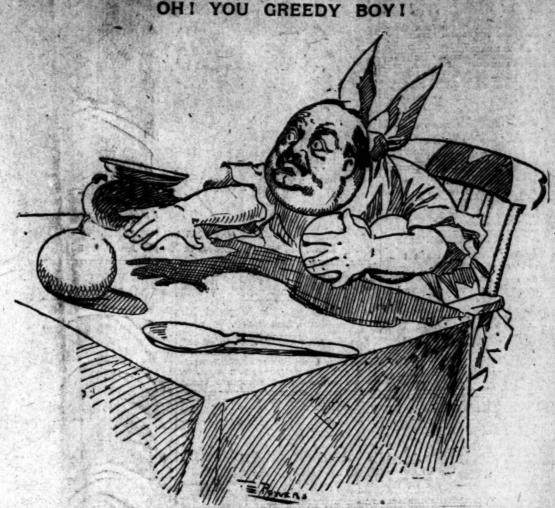

The best people did not accuse the missionaries of any intentional wrong and would not have harmed them, intending only to send them away, so they could no longer be induced by the wicked interpreters to help them in kidnapping defenseless young girls. All agreed it was right to kill the hangers-on guilty of the kidnapping because it is the law and custom that any one may do so in China. The Governor of Fo Klen sent 1,000 soldlers up to Min River to quell the riots and restore order, but the bandits joined with the rebels and whipped the soldlers. The soldlers lost half their number and had to retreat. At the time the paper was printed it was said the whole section was in the control of the mob and there was great fear that elsewhere, when the people hear of the state of affairs at Ku Cheng, there would be great trouble for the missionaries.

Miss Page is a regular attendant at St. Columbkill's Church on Michigan avenue, but as they were to settle in St. Theresa parish when they open their new store in the West End, they thought it would be nicer to have the caremony performed in St. Theresa's.

To do this it was necessary to first set a special discensation from Fr. Francia J. Johns of St. Columbkill's and, with that object in view, they met last evening at Capt. Grapvine's home and from there set out for the house of Fr. Jones.

Between the home of Capt. Grapvine and the residence of the parish priest there is a tract of land that is used by a dalryman for a cow pasture and he keeps in it at all times a big herd of Jersey cows. The cows were there last evening when Samuel Hennessy and Blanche Page sauntered arm and arm through the moonlight on their way to confer with Fr. Jones.

Negro Murderer Taken From Jail and Hanged to a Tree

IN THE COURT-HOUSE YARD.

The Doors of the Prison at Springfield of about a dozen men took Harrison Lewis, the negro who murdered Joe Brooks, also colored, last Friday night, from the jail here and hanged him to a tree in the Courthouse yard. When the mob reached the jail they called for Jailer Smith, but his wife informed them that he was not at home and that he had the keys to the jail with him. This did not daunt the mob, however. Going to a blacksmith shop mear by they procured some sledge hammers and, after three hours' work, succeeded in battering down the jail doors. Lewis was found crouching in his cell and begged piteously for his life, but the leader ordered the men to make quick work of him. He was quickly selzed and, after placing a rope around his neck, was dragged to the nearest tree and strung up without further ceremony.

The mob did its work in a quiet, orderly way, and seemed to be thoroughly organized. It is the opinion of many that it was composed of colored men. After completion of their work the mob quietly dispersed.

The murder was a dastardly one, and the negroes have been greatly worked up since its occurrence. Friday night Lewis went to Brooks' house, and, calling him to the door, abot him down on his own threshold without any warning.

Harrison Lewis, the man that was lynched, was a brother of Matthew Lewis, who narrowly escaped lynching here about two weeks ago for an assault upon Mrs. Murray Shields, and who was taken to Louis-ville for safe keeping.

OFFICE-SEEKERS ARE SORE.

Some of the Party Spoilsmen Criticize His Hener's

Aubs was a rib-roaster for Mayor Walge. Hardly a man aboard the boat but a took a whack at the Mayor for his aptennis of department chiefs and their ribution of patronage. "Why," said sgate Julius Lehman of the Elighteenth rd, "just study the course of Milner, Mayor's Street Commissioner, if you it to discover what is disrupting the Relican party in St. Louis. Nobody ever do of Milner until Walbridge fished him a oblivion and put him at the head of the artment having more patronage of politivalue than any other at the City Hall, he has used this patronage worse than ugwump. About the first thing he did taking charge of the office was to cut in the salary of a fathful and compeRepublican employe 115 a month and the salary of a Democrat 225 a month, ent to the Mayor the other day and proceed against the way things were rung, but nothing we republican workers to the man did any good."

ning, but nothing we Republican workers say to the man did any good."

Boss Filley was aboard the boat, but whenever reporters approached he stopped talking to the crowd that constantly surrounded him, and if the newspaper men didn't take the hint and move on "De Ole Man" would. Mr. Filley never seemed in a more serious mood, and he talked in an undertone all through the trip. One of his henchmen carelessly dropped a remark that furnished a hint to "De Ole Man's" topic of conversation. "There'll be trouble if the Mayor tries to reorganize the House of Delegates." said the henchman in the hearing of a Post-Dispatch reporter. It is evident, then, that the story in this paper last week detailing the Mayor's reorganization scheme has a soild basis of fact. The present organization of the House of Delegates is Boss Filley's personal property, and any interference with it is calculated to arouse his flercest hostility. The fact that Mayor Walbridge has dared lay the plans-for an assault on the organization as soon after the House reconvenes next month as a proper regard for the decencies will permit, shows that His Honor has wearied not only of the aggravating inertia of the House, but also that he has also grown tired of working in the harness with Uncle Filley.

Some well-informed and quick-sighted politicians think they discern in the Mayor's Independent course a desire to divert to himself the tide of popular favor setting in towards the Hon. Chas. Nægel, because of his disregard of the party dictates and his open hostility-to the bosses, big and little. The Mayor, it is said, believes the time is ripe in Missouri for the rise of some such independent statesman as Mr. Nagel, and he will have to go further in this direction than the President of the Council for obvious reasons. To do this he can think of no better way than to declare his independence of Boss Filley from this time on. That, his friends contend, will make him bigger and stronger than the whole Filley machine, even though it does now control everythi

Senator G. A. Wurdemann—"Gus," the boys call him—was one of the ublquitous men on the boat. The anti-Walbridge men flocked around him like bees around a molasses jug, and he fairly divided the honors of the day with Boss Filley and Czar Zieggenhein. In every group he was greeted as "our next Lieutenant-Governor." Nearly every time he was so greeted he forthwith bought the beer. "Maybe I would have been made City Counselor if my residence were in the city instead of the county," he said. "No you wouldn't either," exclaimed Mark Chartrand. "You are a Republican, and that's a crime nowadays." The crowd laughed loud and long, and the Senator again-purchased.

Of course it is known that Col. Wurdemann is on the Filley slate for Lieutenant-Governor. Others on it are the Hon. Benjamin Frank-lin Russell, the poet laureate of Steeleville, for Governor; the Hon. Al. Griffin from Everywhere-in-General and Nowhere-in-Particular, for Secretary of State, and Senator Kennish of Holt County for Attorney-General.

Czar Ziegenhein's declaration of withdrawal from politics, which means that he is not a candidate for Mayor if it means anything, created nothing like the sensation which his manner intended it should. When he had finished his oration and dismounted from the beer table the colored Demosthenes Tandy mounted the table and proposed "three cheers for Henry Zlegenhein, the next Mayor of St. Louis." They were given with a vigor that set the gorgeously bedizzened wheel of fortune close by to whirring. And Col. Zlegenhein bought the beer for everybody in sight. It is suspected that with regard to the Mayoralty nomination he is in that dangerous mental condition of the maiden in the poem, "who, saying she would ne'er consent, consented."

Col. Win. Tamblyn, with a new growth of whiskers that greatly detract from his pulchritude, was also much in evidence. He drank copious draughts of pink soda with the boys who took beer, danced with as many ladies as the programme would permit, and caucussed with the politicians as much as anybody. Theo Berryhill said Col. Tamblyn would set the pace in the Mayoralty running when it begun. To this the Colonel entered no positive disclaimer, merely stating with a smile and a far-away look across the murky waters that at present he was selling clothing.

When the case of Louis Rice of Third-and Market streets was called, his wife, Lizzle, told the Court that her husband came home drunk Sunday night and threw himself down on the bed to sleep off the effects of his spree. She thought he was lying in an uncomfortable position and attempted to arrange the pillows to make him rest easier. He showed his appreciation by rising up in bed and striking her several violent blows in the face. She attempted to escape from his clutches, but he followed her, tore her clothes from her body and gave her a terrible beating. Her cries for help attracted the pclice, who arrested Rice. Judge Peabody disposed of the case by fining Rice $20.

AT THE THEATERS.

Eddie Foy in "Little Robinson Crusoe" at the Olympic.

It was the same old Eddie Foy who appeared last night at the Olympic—the "ornery," comical, quizzical-looking Eddie. He might have just stepped from out of his "Off the Earth" company so far as his make-up was concerned. It would perhaps have been better had he stayed there, for the merits of "Little Robinson Crusoe" are not commanding.

make-up was concerned. It would perhaps have been better had he stayed there, for the merits of "Little Robinson Crusoe" are not commanding.

There was an expectancy on the part of the big audience which greeted the droll Foy last night, which greet and the audience which greeted the droll Foy last night, which greet was the evening progressed. The climaxes of fun, which led to storms of applause and laughter, were missing, and the audience kept wondering where they were.

The star, in the role of Dare Devil Willie, was undenlably funny. He could not help being so, even if he tried, but something is wrong with the burlesque. It drags out too much and is even more disconnected than the ordinary run of burlesque.

W. H. Batchellor and Gustave Luders have not covered themselves with glory in in the matter of the music. There is scarcely a catchy air in the piece, although some of them are pleasing to the ear for the time being.

Miss Adele Farrington as Little Robinson Crusoe cut a stunning figure. She has limbs that will bear close inspection from in front of the footlights, and her costumes were very swell. Her singing, while not superlative, was pleasing.

Although Marie Dressler, as the Widow Crusoe, did not wear tights, she attracted more attention than any of the other feminine members of the company, and by the way it would be interesting to see Miss Dressler in tights. She must weigh in the neighborhood of 175 pounds, and could easily pose as a strong woman. Indeed, on one occasion she held Dare Devil Willie aloft with consummate ease.

Miss Dressler is a clever woman. Her burlesque work with Foy was the hit of the evening, but she is too big to be so gay. Her athletic antics in the first act were very creditable from a standpoint of physical excellence, but they bordered on the vulgar and could easily be spared.

Miss Marie Cahilli as Polly Perkins looked and sang sweetly. She was far too chary of her charms in her bathing suit, however, to fully suit the chappies. Henry Norman as Tuffenuf was in excellen

The Hagan opened its season yesterday The Hagan opened its season yesterday afternoon with a new star and a new play. The star was Joseph Cawthorn, whose manager bills him as "Jolly Joe." The play was "A Fool for Luck." Both the man and the play were accorded a success. Cawthorn is undeniably jolly. He is a German comedian who does not give imitations of Fritz Emmett. For this, alone, he deserves public gratitude.
"A Fool for Luck." presents the ridiculous condition of a man working with might and main to lose $7,000,000 as soon as possible in order to win a girl who will not marry a rich man. He can do what he pleases except give it to the poor. The absurdities arising from such a state of affairs easily appeal to the risbles of every one, and so Cawthorn and his fellow-players had an easy time of it.

and his fellow-players had an easy time of it.

The plot is utterly farcical and yet simple and interesting. Some of the lines are bright, and one of the songs which is rendered by Miss Annie Buckley is sure to become popular. It is all about a little girl who lives in "Paradise Alley." Like Armie Rooney, Maggie Mooney and Mamie O'Rourke, the little girl in Paradise Alley is one of the people, and the people will take her up and sing her praises all over the land.

Miss Buckley has a pleasing voice and her characterization of the East Side New York girl is the best on the stage. She doesn't make you laugh by the ultra-exaggeration of the tough, nor does she wear the clothes of the gutter. She pictures the éast side girl from life.

The singing and whistling specialty of the Burroughs, the accordion specialty of the Burroughs, the accordion specialty of the star and Frank McNish's black-face work were all good.

Havlin's Theater was opened yesterday afternoon with a production of "The Fast Mail," the standard melodrama and the interpolation of a number of vaudeville acts from members of Manager Havlin's Specialty Company. The house was crowded both at the matinee and in the evening. The house is very much improved this season. It ran down last year in appearance at least, and when Mr. Garen took hold of it a month ago as the local manager for Mr. Havlin, he had it refitted and redecorated. The ushers were yesterday clad in uniform and between acts passed lice water. The highest-priced seats this season will be 50 cents.

Jealousy drove Henry Anderson, colored, o shoot and fatally injure Sam Harris, ustabout, in the rear of 917 North Ninth ormer sweetheart of Anderson's named street, at 11:30 o'clock Sunday night. A former sweetheart of Anderson's named Susie Gaines lived there. Anderson and Susie parted five weeks ago, after having lived together for two years. Susie said it was no fault of hers.

"He shuk me to take up wid Annie Hamiton." Susie said.

But Anderson wanted to make up with her. He sent Leona Woods to tell Susie that he would give her money if she would come back to him. She told him to keep his money. This made him angry and he went over to her house flourishing an ugly-looking knife. Sam Harris and two other colored men were in the house.

The "game" was a little strong for Anderson and he left after getting into a warm argument with Harris.

He came back to the house in a few moments and raised a window. Susie asked, "Who's there?" but he didn't reply. He rolled up the curtain and looked in "You're not up to anything good, Henry Anderson," said Susie, and with that Anderson pulled his gun and let fly at Harris, who was sitting five feet away. He shot him twice and would have shot everyone in the room, but they excaped.

At the hospital Monday Harris was reported to be in a dying condition. He was shot in the breast and in the thigh. The police have not yet located Anderson or Leona Woods.

talist, has decided to improve his holdings at Glasgow and Cass avenues with a mod-ern office and store building to cost $30,000. ern office and store building to cost $30,000. The upper floors will be arranged for the accommodation of doctors and dentists.

The site of the new building is the southeast corner, at present improved with a one-story building. The lot measures 30.76. Architect August M. Blinke has planned the structure and let the contract Monday for the wrecking and clearing of the lot for excavating purposes. The building will be three and a half stories in height, with tiled floor and marble wainscoted walls. It will be heated by steam and will otherwise be three and a half stories in height, with tiled floor and marble wainscoted walls. It will be heated by steam and will otherwise be strictly modern.

The exterior will be constructed of buff brick, cut stone and terra cotta. The ground floor will be fitted up suitable for a retail store. The entrance to the building will be located on Glasgow avenue.

Property owners in the vicinity are pleased at Mr. Brewer's proposed investment. The fact that an office building is to be erected in that quiet resident district, however, can hardly be realized. Mr. Brewer says he is confident of making a success of the structure. From inquiries made he will have onfident of making a success of the sure. From inquiries made he will o difficulty in renting the offices.

To Remodel the McLean Building.
The project to remodel the McLean building into a modern hotel has not fallen through, as reported. The Chicago parties interested are still figuring on leasing the structure and expend about $50,000 in building a hotel. The plan proposed is to wreck the present structure to the second story and add three floors. The interfor will be changed and arranged suitable for hotel purposes.

A local architect, who drew plans for the improvement, says that the change can easily be made, as the foundations of the McLean building are extra heavy.

Mr. Rutledge, of the realty firm of Rutledge & Klipatrick, who is interested, said the deal may be closed this week.

Wainwright's New Building. Contractors will begin work this week on Ellis Wainwright's new building adjoining the Commercial building on Sixth street. The building will be two stdries in height, constructed of steel and brick. The front wall will be constructed of terra cotta, with mahogany window and door trimmings. The structure will cover a lot 28x127 feet, and will cost 25x00.

The lower floor will be made suitable for a retail store. Four large offices, finished off in marble, will be located on the second floor. floor.

Owing to the small size of the lot Mr. Wainwright found it hard to improve, from an inventor's standpoint. He tried to make arrangements with the Commercial Building Company to erect an addition to that structure, but the deal was never clinched. Architect Ramsay planned the improvements.

Realty Notes. Farrar & Tate opened the week by selling two lots at Shrewsbury Park. Nichols & Ritter are negotiating for the sale of a large lot of ground in Chouteau Place.

After Mr. Barlow's valor had been duly noticed in the Post-Dispatch, the Sergeant of the precinct called at the house and tried to make the young man believe there never were any burgiars there and that it was only a dog aided by a vivid imagination, which created all the stir, kicked over the furniture and broke the window needs which created all the str, kicked over the furniture and broke the window panes.
The fact that Barlow had seen burglars did not "faze" the copper. He reported to Capt. Boyd and the Captain to Chief Harrigan that there were no evidences of burglars having been in the house. The Sergeant had cvidently expected the occupants to leave the overturned furniture where it had been left by the burglars.
Young Barlow states that the officer on the bert failed to find evidence of prowlers the night of the occurrence because he was a new policeman and afraid to go into the back yard, much less into the house, until he had summoned his partner. When the latter arrived the unwelcome visitors had disappeared.

HARRISON P. BRIDGE DEAD. A HARMONY

angest Son of the Late Millionaire Hudson P Bridge.

title of Bridge-Beach Manufacturing Company.

The Bridge homestead was at Glendale, St. Louis county, and here young Bridge was born. The family is one of the wealthiest and best known in St. Louis.

Hudson E. Bridge was married twice and left six heirs to a large estate, which has enhanced rapidly in value since his death.

Of his first marriage there were two heirs, Mrs. J. Gilbert Chapman and Mrs. George R. Leighton, now deceased, and of his second marriage three, Mrs. Nelson C. Chapman, Hudson E. Bridge, Jr., who lives half of the year at 3017 Morgan street, and the remainder in New Hampshire, and Harrison P. Bridge, whose death is just reported.

The Chapmans, the Leightons and Hudson E. Bridge, Jr., are now spending the summer at a resort in New Hampshire.

In Boston young Bridge was a prominent club member, and, having lots of money, spent it with a lavish hand.

BULLET IN HIS LUNG.

Yet William Fox Made His Escape From the City Hespital.

Between remaining in the City Hospita until well enough to stand trial for burglary and larceny and running the risk of dying on the street from a bullet wound in dying on the street from a bullet wound in the lung, William Fox chose the latter Sunday morning and made a desperate and successful dash for liberty. He is still at large, but unless he has changed his attire he'll soon be behind the bars again. When he took French leave Sunday he wore a regulation canvas shirt, with the initials C. H. and the scarlet letter M emblazoned on the bosom, a pair of hospital trousers and slippers, no socks. He lost the slippers in escaping. Sunday a week ago Fox was shot by Officer White in the neighborhood of Broadway and Spruce street, while the patrolman was pursuing him. White had already arrested two of Fox's companions and later arrested Fox at his home. At the hospital it was found that the bullet had penetrated the left lung and Fox was thought to be in a precarious condition. The police having fixed upon him a burglary committed the night before on Poplar street, he was placed in the prisoners' cell in the Surgical ward.

come home until the case is disposed of.

New York dispatches announce that the arrest was made at the instance of a spy on the other side of the Atlantic, who notified Customs Inspector Donohue to be on the lookout for Griesedick when the steamer arrived Friday.

Saturday morning Griesedick telegraphed his wife, living at 1411 South Eleventh street, of his arrival in New York and said he would be bome in a few days. The family knew nothing of his arrest until it appeared in the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

There were two Henry Griesedicks in Burope and both were expected home by Bept. 1. This led to the belief that Henry Griesedick of H. Griesedick & Co., dealers in browers' supplies, living at 1821 Hickory Street, was the man arrested. His wife did not learn until Sunday that it was Henry Griesedick, Jr.

The latter's brother was seen at the browers by a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday morning. He said his brother had probably brought home some presents which he fails to list and that led to the trouble. He had heard nothing from him, but did not think it is anything serious. NEW YORK, Aug. 26 .- The Erie reorgan P. Morgan & Co., New York, and Messrs. J. contemplates the harmonizing of interest contemplates the harmonizing of interests and is more or less antagonistic to the lines composing the Erie system.

An arrangement has been made with the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio Railway voting trustees whereby, subject to ratification by their beneficiaries, they undertake to foreclose and deliver the N. Y., P. & O. property, subject only to the prior lien equipment and leased line securities, for which reservation is made. The reorganizers have also practically secured the Chicago & Erie, so that the Brie system will be solidified into one compact organization from New York to Chicago. New securities are to be created on the entire system from New York to Chicago, with all branches, coal roads, etc.

The reorganization converts into new securities everything on the Erie subsequent to first consols, everything on the N. Y., P. & O., except $8,000,000 4½ per cent bonds, and everything on the Chicago & Erie subsequent to first mortgage.

The present Erie second consols get 75 per cent in general lien bonds and 55 per cent in new first preferred stock. Erie incomes get 40 per cent in new first preferred stock, the present preferred stock. Erie incomes get 40 per cent in new first preferred stock, the present preferred stock on paying assessment gets 100 per cent in new second preferred, and the present common stock on paying assessment gets 100 per cent in new second preferred, and the present common stock on paying assessment gets 100 per cent in new second preferred stock. CRIMINAL COURT.

More Than All the Circuit Court Divisions Combined.

RESULT OF SLIP-SHOD WAYS.

By Reason of Work-House Pleas the City Is Ferced to Pay Costs, Instead of the State.

The Criminal Court costs the city more than all the divisions of the Circuit Court put together. The net cost of the Criminal Court to the city for the last fiscal year after deducting $3,386.95 paid into the treas-ury by the Clerk for fees collected, was $56,346.08, to which must be added the Criminal Court's proportion of the expenses of the Jury Commissioner's office, amounting in the aggregate to $6,717.99. What that proportion is cannot be ascertained, as the jury list for all the courts except the Court of Criminal Correction are made together.
These costs do not include the cost of maintaining prisoners while in jail, which would make the total very much larger.
But the records show that the cost of the

A local street car manager, discussing advantages of the proposed consolidation, admits that it will be a monopoly, but declares that it will not be a grinding one. It is interesting to note what kind of monopoly is thought not to be grinding by a corporation manager. He remarks that the fare cannot be advanced nor the transfer system abolished, and adds: The monopoly will, if it is found that some of the roads are not paying, apply the trimticular line are running five minutes apart. me of the cars will be taken off and the time stretched to, say, seven minutes. Parallel lines, which cannot maintain their ends, will soon receive a pruning. Passengers can then take their choice and wait onger on a corner or walk a few blocks and embark on a faster line. In either case the nickel will find its way into the sam whole plan of the monopoly is clearly suggested in this paragraph. Competition having been shut off, the obthe earnings which are now made by peting lines with the least service. One line would be made to do the work of two and branch lines which competition compels the companies to run without present profit would be cut off and the ple would have to whistle for accommodations.

The value of the street car property in this city has vastly increased within a few years past. Travel has increased 100 per cent, while the population has increased only 30 per cent. The object of consolidation is to absorb the present and future value of the street car franchises in a vast capitalization and under a grinding monopoly earn dividends on it by giving the people the least possible service for their money.

As there was a supply of standard silve coin in existence there was no necessity for our mint to coin more.

According to all accounts, a slaughter use is a refined place of entertainment in comparison with this first American bull-ring. At a slaughter-house the animals are at least slain with neatness and dispatch, whereas at the Gillette bull fight there was not even a skillful climax to redeem the slow torture to which the peaceful bulls were subjected. There was not even the excitement of danger to the buil fighters to lend sest to the slaughter.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON KENTUCKY.

The Kentucky campaign should b closely watched by Democrats every-where, and especially by those of the West and South. It is of peculiar interest in many ways, but it is especially significant as an object lesson.

It affords conclusive evidence that the sound money" campaign means that the Administration Democrats are determined to either rule or ruin the Demo cratic party. Where they can dictate or "interpret" the platform or select the nominees, they will do their share in electing the ticket, because in that way they can best further their ideas and fasten their control upon the party. Where they cannot dictate the platform or select the candidates, or where the candidates refuse to join the procession which Cleveland and Carlisle are leading towards the gold standard camp, they will openly bolt or secretly knife the

The intention to do this is proclaim with an openness that has at last made all attempt at disguise superfluous. In Kentucky, supposing they had control of the State Committee, they summoned Gen. Hardin before it with the intentio of rebuking him and possibly of forcing him off the ticket. When they discovered that the committee was not quite, ready for open treason, they announced their intention of resigning from the committee, as a signal to their friends to with hold support from the ticket. The word has been passed around, and in Kentucky and elsewhere the "sound money" organs are throwing over the ticket and proclaiming their belief that the Republicans will win. And there can be no doubt that in this case the wish glorification in Administration and "sound money" circles everywhere if the Democrats are defeated in Kentucky There will be corresponding disappoint ment if the Democrats win. The Kentucky campaign has made all these facts plain. Hence its value as an object lesson.

ARE BLOOMERS "JUST THE THING!"

It has been judicially determined by Judge Wilson of Little Rock that bloomers are "just the thing." He says it must be accepted as a settled fact tha women will use bicycles, and that they should be permitted without criticism to ject of the monopoly will be to get all provide themselves with a costume that This he holds bloomers to be,

> After this authoritative decision, it will be useless to attempt to prevent the use of bloomers by invoking the aid of the law. They are not only not con demned by the law, but are affirmatively declared comfortable and appropriate This decision will tend to discourage the use of bloomers. For it is one of the delightful characteristics of woman that what she is forbidden to do is precisely what has most attractions for her. Had Judge Wilson upheld the arrest of Mrs Noe in Little Rock by imposing a finand prohibiting bloomers, skirts would have been in danger of vanishing from the capital city of Arkansas. Now that bloomers are approved by man, sitting judicially upon them, they will lose on of their chief attractions.

The truth is that criticism of bloome on the ground that they are immodes is absurd. They are as little immodes as any dress that woman has worn in many years. The attack upon them should be made from the esthetic side and not on the ground of impropriety. The real objection to bloomers is that the great majority of women look hideous them. They are the most distillusioning dress that women ever put on. If the should come to be generally worn, courtship would lose its charm and marriag uld be even fewer than now. Woman will not be slow to discov this if left to herself. Her inherent good taste will limit the use of bloomers, out any attempt on the part of man to et up a false and ridiculous standar of propriety.

Mr. Bayard describes his countrymer as a "violent people," whereas he ought to know that there is no people on earth to which as a people this term can be applied with less accuracy. Mr. Bryce, the keenest and most accurate foreign observer who has studied us, was struck with our self-restraint and testifies to it in his, "American Commonwealth." He attributes the success of our institution which would have failed in any other country to the remarkable development of this quality. De Tocqueville recognized self-restraint and respect for law as the distinguishing political traits of Americans. But in addition to this high testim and to the proof of history, Mr. Bayard's

American sections anould have taught him that the word "violent" was the last to apply to the American people in a speech to an English audience, Amer-icans who see national, State and munic-ipal elections without disturbance at home are astonished at the violence which prevails in an English election. This is the true test of a people's self-

But no less astonishing than Mr. Bay-But no less astonishing than Mr. Bayard's slander on the character of the American people is his apparent ignorance of the office of President. He told his English friends that it "took a real man, to govern the people of the United States" and spoke of choosing "a ruler." Mr. Bayard has evidently been too long abroad if he has forgotten that Hamilton's attempt to make the President a ruler who would govern the people of the United States was defeated and that all of our officers from the hamblest clear. United States was defeated and that all of our officers from the humblest clerk to the President, are public servants subject absolutely to the will of the people. There is no act of government which the President could exercise in defiance of the popular will that would not be a usurpation.

Mr. Bayard is talking too much. If Mr. Olney really means to inaugurate a strong foreign policy he cannot make a better beginning than by intimating to Mr. Bayard that fewer speeches would be acceptable and thus reducing his opportunities to blunder.

New York Saloonists Submit.

From the New York Evening Post.

The scene in the Recorder's court yesterday, when the liquor dealers bowed their heads in submission and declared through their counsel that they had given up the struggle with the Police Board, and would thenceforward obey the law against Sunday sales, was one of the most remarkable ever witnessed in this city. "Under this strict and unexpected enforcement of the law," said their counsel, "the saloon-keepers are driven to the verge of bankruptcy. But they realise that nothing is to be gained hereafter by violating the law. It only means additional loss, greater poverty, and they have concluded to give up the struggle, and hereafter they will obey the law strictly." Several of them pleaded guilty in accordance with this programme, and in accordance with this programme, and were subjected to nominal fines. While this scene was being enacted in the Recorder's court, a very similar one was in progress in the Court of Special Sessions, in which about fifty arrested liquor dealers pleaded guilty and paid their fines, preferring this outcome of the matter to a transfer of their cases to the Court of General Sessions. The proceedings in both courts were in ac-cordance with a general plan of surrender upon which practically the einterest of the city is agreed.

From the Boonville Democrat,
It now seems to be a "burning question with Chairman Maffitt and some other members of the Democratic State Executive Committee whether they will recognize or disregard the additions made to the committee by the Pertle Springs Convention. The disregard business of the wishes of the Democracy of the State has gor about far enough, and it is hoped that Chairman Maffitt and other members of the old committee will heed the voice of the Democracy and not listen to the narrow factional and personal counsels of a few gold bug leaders. The True Cause of Lynchings.

From the De Soto (Mo.) Facts.

After twenty-four hours and a half deliberation, the jury in the Duestrow case at Union failed to agree, standing seven for equittal and five for conviction. There is surely something wrong with our system of dealing out justice in this country. Had it been a poor man who committed the atrocious crimes of this rich villain, he would have suffered the penalty long ago. But as long as his money holds out, justice will lag, and the blood of his dead wife and 'child will call for vengeance in vain. It is such mockeries as this trial that makes us almost think the Carroll County lynching affair was right, and that if we had more "lynching bees" the morals of the land might become a little more purified.

Hen Invented Corsets.

The much maligned corset was invented and first worn by men. The earliest mention in the history of this article is by Aristophanes, who lived in the fifth century B. C. In one of his comedies he ridicules a brother poet, who, inordinately vain of his personal beauty, was dissatished with the shape of his figure, which was far removed from ideal symmetry, being much too thin for his height. He therefore hit upon the plan of improving his physique by encasing his body in an under culrass made of little pieces of wood. The idea was imittated later on by another man, the Emperor Aptoninus Pius, who found great difficulty in persuading the Roman women to follow his example. lealing out justice in this country.

Old fruit stains may be removed with oxalic acid. Wash the stained portion in the acid till clear; rinse at once in rain water, as the acid will attack the fabric if left upon it. Now wet the spot in ammonia and give a final rinsing.

Grass stains should be rubbed with molasses thoroughly and then washed out as usual. Another treatment is to rub with alcohol and then wash in water.

Rust and ink stains. Rust and ink stains should be rubbed with juice of lemon and the spot then covered with sait and the cloth placed in the sun. If this treatment does not serve to remove the stain, or if the fabric is colored and so cannot be treated with the lemon juice, oxalic acid may be used as for old fruit stains. Still another treatment is to apply a mixture of two parts tartar and one part powdered alum; this latter is good for a variety of stains which fall under other methods.

It occurs to me that the advocates of Free Coinage of Silver of which I am one) give the other crowd a long lead in the race when they are allowed to assume the title of sound money advocates. I am in favor of a sound currency and I think if the staunchest friend of silver was asked if he was in favor of sound money he would say the same. We all want a sound currency but the question before the "meetin" is what is sound money? And by allowing them to assume that title it seems to me by inference we advocate unsound money. R. H. Recreant Leaders To the Editor of The Post-Dispatch.

I am not an artist, and I cannot therefore send you a sketch, but is seems to me that a picture of Cleveland and Carlisle marching the Democratic hosts, with banners flying, toward free coinage in one (1882) and then in the companion piece (1885) giving the command to the rear, march, and showing a mere handful (office holders) obeying the command and turning their backs on free silver to march toward the single gold standard, while the great Democratic army moves on to free silver and victory, would be a good thing to publish as showing the present political situation. We have no silver paper now published at Little Rock, but Arkansas is for free silver still by a majority too big to count.

Hope you may be able to make a cartoon out of my crude suggestion.

Your correspondent "C" must be a violent Republican when the name of one of our West End streets, a relic of the past perhaps, so irritates him that the American Eagle within him is all in a fluff. Six or seven counties in this section of the State constitute a territory, which for its fertility of soil is unsurpased; yet much of it is rendered unfit for cultivation by the neglected condition of the mouths of the streams that are supposed to drain this part of the commonwealth.

Judge Gibben's Decision Settles Horse Racing in Illinois.

RUINED BY BLACKLEGS.

No State Has a More Simple, Lucid Law Against Gambling Than Illinois, Says the Courts.

Race track gambling, such as that which as been conducted at Harlem and Haw-terne in Chicago, is certainly doomed. In his decision granting the injunction against Harlem, Judge Gibbons emphasized the fact that no State or county has to-day a more simple, lucid law against gambling than Illion, "the people of this city, as it would from the arguments advanced in this case and the appeals made to the court to afford them relief, are as hopelessly in the toils of blacklegs and gamblers as if the law was powerless to pun an and crush them."

The Harlem people announce their intention of going before Judge Gibbons this morning and enter a denial of the allegations made by the Civic Federation in its plea for the injunction. Heretofore the Harlemites have been fighting on technical grounds. In case the injunction stands the Harlemites will make no further effort to race. In connection with Judge Gibbons' interpretation of the Illinois law, it should be mentioned that what he says applies to every track in Illinois, including Madison and East St. Louis.

Jim Murphy, Mike Conroy, Charley Carmichael and several other owners had made up their minds to ship to Chicago from the Fair Grounds this week, but Saturday's developments caused them to change their minds. Murphy, with Buck Massle, Wekota, Norman, and Rouble, and Conroy, with Liberty Hell and Frankie D., were across the river when they heard the news from Chicago, and it is hardly necessary to state that they hurried back to the Fair Grounds. Although the Harlem purses were cheap there was quite a number of good horses racing there, including those of Ruddy Bros, and a number of Ed Corrigan's stable. In case the Fair Grounds Association announce at once an extension of the meeting after the 1st, St. Louis will get most of these horses.

The big attendance at the Fair Grounds Saturday emphasizes the fact that St. Louis is still hungry for first-class racing, and it is not at all unifiely that the meeting will continue for an indefinite period. There are any quantity of good horses are the track the rack the track of a proven popular with the public wants it, which is plainly evident by the generous patronage accorded the track this season.

4,200 metres for harnessed trotters. Fourteen were entered and there were three French absentees.

Although somewhat heavily handicapped, the American trio—Autrain, Helen Leyburn and Grace Simmons—showed what training can do. Little by little they crept up, passing the Russians, Roussalka and Volshebnitsa, and then going for the leaders. The finish was one of the most exciting ever witnessed on a track, as Phillips, knowing what Autrain is worth, kept her quietly in hand until the final round, when she overhauled Tambour and won as she pleased. The times were: Autrain, 6:42 1-5; Tambour, 6:44; Helen Leyburn, 6:44 4-5.

The non-placed trotters were Miss Tilford, Uncle Sam, Roussalka, Volshebnitsa, Grace Simmons, Ada and Boewy.

The Story of Minnie Williams' Murder

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. M.-H. H.

quite sufficient to show me the danger of such proceedings on account of the awfui odor, if I had no other motive to deter me from such a course."

Holmes says that in April Minnie Williams, knowing him to be in need of money, gave him a draft for $2,500, the proceeds of the sale of real estate she had held in Texas, and asked him to use it until she should need it. In order that she should be protected, he transferred to her by warranty deed a house and lot at Wilmette, Ill., valued at $7,500. The money was returned to her in May, 1893, being paid by Issac R. Hitt & Co. of Chicago. She desired to convert her other Southern property into cash or improved Northern property, and he advised her to execute a worthless deed, by having some one other than herself sign the same, to a fictitious person, and offer the property for sale at a very low cash figure, and years later to demand an additional sum in exchange for a good deed. This was done, Clarence A. Phillips forging the name of Alexander E. Bond upon the deed so made, which deeds are still in existence.

About this time, Holmes narrates, Miss Williams was taken ill, suffered from acute mania and was removed to the Presbyterian Hospital, near the Clybourn avenue car limits, being enrolled as Mrs. Williams, as her allment was such that it was prudent for her to pass as a married woman. When she rister, Nannie Williams, came from Texas to visit her. Returning one evening early in July from a day in the city, he was greeted by a cry from Minnie Williams in the parior.

"Is that you? My God, I thought you would never come. Nannie is dead."

She was seated upon the floor, holding her sister, head in her arms, rocking back and forth and moaning, much as a mother would over a child.

He found that Nannie had been dead for hours and laid her body upon the bed in his own room, finding no mark of violence but slight discoloration on one of her temples.

According to the story written by Holmes, Minnie Williams had been away the preced-but slight discoloration on one of her temples.

According to the story written by Holmes, Minnie Williams had been away the preceding night and Holmes had also been unexpectedly detained by business all night. When Minnie Williams returned that morning she noticed that his bed had not been occupied during the night.

Her act, according to Holmes' statement, was prompted by jealousy, and he describes the affair as follows:

"With only this one thought in her disordered mind, she had rushed into the adjoining room, where her sister then sat, and in a voice which only the very few who have been intimately acquainted with Miss Williams can appreciate, had said:

"You devil, you have stolen my husband from me."

Williams can appreciate, had said:

"You devil, you have stolen my husband from me."

"At the same time she had struck her sister with a small foot-stool, causing her to fall to the floor, where, with hardly a struggle, she had ceased to breathe."

At first Minnie thought her sister had only fainted, and tried to revive her. Then she found her efforts useless, and remained in the position in which he found her. Then came the question of what to do. Holmes' story of what was done is as follows:

"We clothed Nannie in a light dress she had liked to wear, and taking a large trunk she had brought with her from Texas, placed her in it."

Holmes says the body was put in a trunk and thrown into the lake.

"The last I ever saw of Miss Williams was in Detroit last fall and my belief is that she is still alive and well."

Daughter. The very unusual story of swapping a daughter for a wife is reported from To-ledo, Wash. A farmer named Thompson lost his wife a short time ago. She left him a little baby girl. The child he took to a neighbor by the name of Putnam to be cared for. Of course frequent visits were made to see how the baby was getting made to see how the baby was getting along.

Mme. Putnam was quite a comely person and very soon attracted the attention of the widowed farmer. Then he soon learned to love her, but worst of all his love was reciprocated. The husband discovered the situation. The lovers naturally expected a scene, but there was none.

Instead of making the neighboring hills resound with jealous rage, Putnam called upon Thompson, and they discussed the matter in a business-like manner. Putnam professed to be tired of his wife; and said he would as lief that some other fellow would take her away as not, but he wanted something in return. He wanted some one around the house to minister to his wants, some one he could learn to love. Thompson had a daughter who suited him very well, and, if it was just the same, he was willing to trade his wife for her. That suited Thompson and the girl too. So a bargain was struck and the exchange made. Thompson and Mrs. Putnam went to Aberdeen and the girl to Castle Rock.

LABOR DAY PARADE. Grand Marshall Marnell Announces the Official Line of March.

John P. Marnell, Grand Marshal of the Labor Day parade, says some one has been circulating fictitious reports about the line of march on that day and wants it understood that the following is the only official route: The parade will form Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 2 at Twelfth and Market, promptly at 1 o'clock. The start will be north on Twelfth atreet to Franklin avenue, east on Frankin avenue to Broadway, south on Broadway to Elim street, east on Elim to Fourth, thence taking the most direct line to Concordia Pank, where a picnic and celebration will be held. Prizes will be given for athletic events, and there will be dancing in the evening.

There will be over 25,000 men in line, over twelve divisions and twenty bands of music.

Only 38 to Memphis and return, including meals and berth on the Anchor Line steam-Labor Day parade, says some one has bee neals and berth on the Anchor Line stea LANSING, Io., Aug. 28.—Felix Brunner of Galena, Ill., mate of the steamer Menominee, was nearly carved to pieces by two desperadoes named Quinn and Roberts of Victoria, Wis., while the boat was making a landing near there last night. He was cut in a dozen places.

Not Contemplated by the Law.

The next North Carolina Legislature is to be asked to set aright an apparent notable injustice resulting from the antimiscegnation law of the State. This law prohibits the marriage of a white person to a person of Indian blood to the third generation. The official stenographer of the last State Convention of Teachers at Raleigh was a highly educated and accomplished young woman of half Cherokee blood. A prominent architect of Raleigh fell in love with her and they were married outside the State in order to avoid violating the North Carolina law. They discovered, however, on returning to Raleigh, that they were subject to prosecution in returning to the State. The Legislature is to be asked to legalize their marriage.

Mr. W. S. Macdonald of Glasgow, in a re-cent lecture before the Highland Society of London, traced the history of the harp from the shadows of mythology to the present day. It was, he said; the principal one of ancient and mediaeval times. All the skill and artic-tic genius of the Egyptians was lavished up-on its design and decoration. The Druds first brought the Yone and nite of the harp to favor in modern times in 1810, when Sebas-tian Erard of London brought it to the front rank of musical instruments. It has been inseparably connected with the traditions and lore of the Gaelic people from time immemorial.—Scientific American.

The Early Bird and the Bug.

A neighbor, whose place adjoined Bronson Alcott's, had a vegetabl's garden awhich he took a great interes, had one also, and both men were interested in their potato patches. One morning, meeting by the fence, the neighbor said: How is it, Mr. Alcott, you are never troubled with bugs, while my vines are crowded with them?" "My friends," replied Mr. Alcott, "I rise very early in the morning, gather all the bugs from my vines and throw them into your yard."

into the room, the smile on her face lighting up the apartment like a ray of summer sunshine.

"My dear, Minnie," he cried, as he offered her a chair and relieved her of her muff and boa, "what in the world induced you to come here?"

"Curiosity! Seven-eighths of a woman's nature! It has ruined many a woman and clum; to five the work is do, for her work is do, for no money, eh?" and she caressed his hand fondly. "You have not made much progress on the royal road?"

"Don't you understand, Minnie, I have endeavored to earn my own living honestly, endeavored to earn my own living honestly, endeavored to be independent of any man, and I want to continue so. There are enough parasites in the world. It has been a bit of a struggle, I'll admit, but I have grown accustomed to it."
"Brandon, was Minnie's solemn response." I want to show you the folly of your independence. Did you think I could not read between the lines of your letter to me? A man who is making his fortune, or is earning his hving and has hopes for the future, does not implore the woman he loves to forget him and marry some other man. Brandon, you do love me?" She placed her hands upon his shoulders and looked up into his face.

He shut his eyes for a moment, his lips quivered and he did not speak, but he smoothed her fair hair softly.
"Then you will come away with me?" she pleaded. "You will sink your foolish spirit of pride and independence and make me a happy woman?" and she nestled her head on his arm.

"Not long ago, when you were rich, you loved me and we were to be married; but when you lost all in those wretched companies you would not be my husband, though my fortune is ample for both."
"I wish I could swallow my wretched on pride, but I cannot. I could not live on your money in your house. My inmost testings would cry shame at me; my position would be unbearable."

Minnis shivered.
"You are cold?" he asked.
She nodded.
"Well, you had better be goins," and he hand-

LOVE AND FORTUNE.

ng Trip of a Danish Heiress Find and Wed Her Sweetheart.

PERTH AMBOY, Aug. 28.—Imogena Johnson, a young woman, was married Thursday night to Thomas Iverson, after traveling more than 3,000 miles to find him. She brought him a fortune and there is a romance more interesting than fiction interwoven with their courtship and marriage. Five years ago they were happy lovers in Denmark. Imogena was an only child and an heires. Thomas was a poor, but thrifty, mechanic, Her parents opposed his suit so violently that he came to America, settled at Perth Amboy, and for a time did well. Then he had ill luck, became very poor, and at last, in despair and shame, ceased to write Imogena. About that time, her parents died, leaving her a $30,000 estate. She tried to find Iverson's whereabouts and did through Mrs. Nels Orsae, a Dane. Imogena wrote Mrs. Orsae to keep it all a secret, but said she would soon be here. She arrived Saturday week, went to Mrs. Orsae's and Iverson was sent for. When he entered Mrs. Orsae's parlor there was a surprise on both sides. He almost fainted when he realized that he was face to face with the girl he loved, and she was shocked to see the condition of poverty which was evident from her sweetheart's appearance. Miss Johnson is a tall, graceful girl. She was prompt to act. She quickly explained her prospects, and Iverson fell in at once with her plans. He was taken to a tallor's and an entire outfit of clothing was ordered and paid for. Imogena had with her just half her fortune in cash. It was dejosited in a bank, and the girl gave Iverson $250, so that he could feel independent, she said. Then she rented a comfortable house on Broad street and began to furnish it with all the things that a woman's fancy and leaning the length of cash suggested.

"DOGGETT'S RACE."

The Title of a Curious Ancient English Custom.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—There are some things here that few American visitors see. One is the race on the Thames for Doggett's coat and badge. Not one visitor in 50,40 prob-ably has ever heard of it. The race was one of the great events of room. For this each man receives $1.25 and a supper.

The race was started this year at 10:30 o'clock a.m. An officer known as the Barge Master gave the word. He was attired in a cocked hat, a scarlet cost, and had a gold badge on his left arm as large as a dinner plate. The contestants were Stenning of Poplar, Gadson of Greenwich, Gibson of Putney, Brain of Richmond, Cobb of Putney and Hardy of Greenwich. Gibson and Gadson struggled as far as Westminster bridge, about half way; then Gibson pulled ahead and won by eight lengths. From the river banks the people kept up a perfect pandemonium of shoutling.

kept up a perfect pandemonium of shouting.

On arriving at the winning port the men were rowed in one boat to the Prime Warden's steamer, where the prizes were distributed and a quart of beer in a huge pewter mug was empited by each waterman. The Prime Warden and the guests then steamed back to the hall, where a luncheon was in waiting, and Doggett's coat and badge man for 1856 passed the rest of the day, and no doubt the greater part of the night, in revelry and much beer with the other five watermen whom he succeeded in defeating.

vere Dr. H. Von Herff of this city and Mr John La Bourdette, administrator of the lanta Marie planfation, at Guantanamo the race on the Thames for Doggett's coat and badge. Not one visitor in 50,50 probably has ever heard of it.

The race was one of the great events of the year and drew all London to the banks of the river. It was in honor of the greater of the part and drew all London to the banks of the river. It was in honor of the greater of the part of the last King of the American colonies that the first race took place, but it has been repeated on the river for the 150 years since the time of King Geros of Thomas Doggett, an actor and writed from the country. "The sugar planters are between the devil and the deep sea. If they do not pay large sums of money for protection,' their fields are laid waste. If they ask protection from the Government they are marked as enemies of the republic, and their property will be set on fire or ruined at the first opportunity. On the steamer as a fellow-passenger with Dr. Von Herff, was John La Bourdette of Guantanamo. His mission to this city is an unusual one. Some time last May he received notice from the leader of the revolutionists' army that the owner of the plantation was expected to contribute to the aid of the cause. Later on the plantation was raided and recently matters became so serious that La Bourdette decided to leave the island and come to New York for consultation. In an interview Mr. La Bourdette, who speaks no English, said: The Santa Marie plantation is owned by Senor Fernando Pons, who now lives in Paris. It consists of about thirty-five hundred acres, and the estate is valued at one million dollars.

"I'ld did not pay much attention at first to the demands of the insurgents, but on August 61 received a letter from Gen. Macco, who was very much in earnest. So I have come to this city to see whether we should raise and pay the money or not."

A GILSONITE COMBINE After the Rich Deposits in the Uncom pangre Reservation.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—There will be a strong fight over the successor to Capt. W. S. Davis, late member of the commission for selecting and distributing lands to the Uintah and Uncompander Indians. A combine is said to have been formed of New York, New Jersey and St. Louis capitalists to control this appointment for the purpose of securing if possible a monopoly of the vast glisonite deposits which lie along the eastern boundary of the Uncompander reservation.

Under the law providing for the opening of the Uncompahere reservation no person is permitted to locate more than two claims of ten acres each, containing asphaltum or gilsonite. Representatives of the comof ten acres each, containing asphaltum or glisonite. Representatives of the combine, however, hope to have the ear of the commission and to know in advance the exact date when the section will be open. Their plan is said to be to have a stool pigeon on every deposit within the area named ready to flie his claim on an hour's warming. While these claims will be ostensibly for the benefit of the individuals making them, they will in reality be in the interest of the combine. There are less than 1,000 indians to whom land will be allotted, and these allottments will be located principally among the agricultural sections along the Green and White Rivers and up the Duchesne River in the fertile valleys where irrigation is possible.

As soon as the allotments to the Indians shall have been made the remaining lands containing the glisonite deposits will be thrown open to the public.

Glisonite is so valuable that it pays to haul it from seventy-five to a hundred miles to the nearest railroad at great expense and then to pay heavy freight rates on it across the country. It is the purest known form of asphalt. From it are made black japan and other varnishes and the best of all electric insulators.

The uses of glisonite are constantly increasing, and the deposits in Utah, if freely held for public use, are large enough to supply the world. These deposits are destined to be worth many millions of dollars.
